Overview of Relevant Laws

The False Claims Act ( 31 U.S.C. §§ 3729-3733)

The False Claims Act is a federal law designed to prevent and detect fraud, waste and abuse in federal healthcare programs, including Medicaid and Medicare. Under the False Claims Act, anyone who “knowingly” submits false claims to the Government is liable for damages up to three times the amount of the erroneous payment plus mandatory penalties of $5,000 to $10,000 for each false claim submitted.

The law was revised in 1986 to expand the definition of “knowingly” to include a person who:

- Has actual knowledge of falsity of information in the claim;
- Acts in deliberate ignorance of the truth or falsity of the information in the claim; and
- Acts in reckless disregard of the truth or falsity of the information in a claim.

False Claims suits can be brought against individuals and entities. The False Claims Act does not require proof of a specific intent to defraud the Government. Providers can be prosecuted for a wide variety of conduct that leads to the submission of a false claim.

Some examples include:

- Knowingly making false statements;
- Falsifying records;

- Submitting claims for services never performed or items never furnished;
- Double-billing for items or services;
- Using false records or statements to avoid paying the Government;
- Falsifying time records used to bill Medicaid; or
- Otherwise causing a false claim to be submitted.

Whistleblower or “Qui Tam” Provisions

In order to encourage individuals to come forward and report misconduct involving false claims, the False Claims Act contains a “Qui Tam” or whistleblower provision.

The Government, or an individual citizen acting on behalf of the Government, can bring actions under the False Claims Act. An individual citizen, referred to as a whistleblower or “Relator,” who has actual knowledge of an alleged false claims may file a lawsuit on behalf of the U.S. Government. If the lawsuit is successful, and provided certain legal requirements are met, the whistleblower may receive an award ranging from 15% - 30% of the amount recovered.

Employee Protections

The False Claims Act prohibits discrimination by Citizen Advocates, Inc. against any employee for taking lawful actions under the False Claims Act. Any employee who is discharged, demoted, harassed, or otherwise discriminated against because of lawful acts by the employee in False Claims actions is entitled to all relief necessary to make the employee whole. Such relief may include reinstatement, double back pay, and compensation for any special damages, including litigation costs and reasonable attorney fees.

Administrative Remedies for False Claims (31 USC Chapter 38. §§3801-3812).

This federal statute allows for administrative recoveries by federal agencies including the Department of Health and Human Services, which operates the Medicare and Medicaid Programs. The law prohibits the submission of a claim or written statement that the person knows or has reason to know is false, contains false information or omits material information. The agency receiving the claim may impose a monetary penalty of up to $5,500 per claim and damages of twice the amount of the original claim.

Unlike the False Claims Act, a violation of this law occurs when a false claim is submitted, not when it is paid. Also unlike the False Claims Act, the determination of whether a claim is false, and imposition of fines and penalties is made by the administrative agency, and not by prosecution in the federal court system.

Prohibitions under the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. §§ 1320a-7a--1320a-7b).

The Social Security Act allows the government to impose civil penalties for various offenses. Examples of these offenses include improperly submitting claims for medical services (such as false claims or medically unnecessary claims), offering kickbacks, and making payments to induce the reduction or limitation of services. The Social Security Act sets out criminal and civil penalties for making certain kinds of false statements in connection with federal health care programs, including Medicare. False statements made by a provider of items or services may constitute a felony punishable by a fine of up to $25,000 and five years in jail, or both. A provider found to have made false statements can also be excluded from participation in the federal health care programs. When false statements are made by someone else, the penalty may be a fine of up to $10,000 and one year in jail, or both. Knowingly and willfully making false statements to qualify an institution for which certification is required is a felony punishable by a fine up to $25,000 or up to five years in jail, or both. Certain “illegal patient admittance and retention practices” are also illegal and are punishable by a fine of up to $25,000 or five years in jail, or both.

Health Care Fraud (18 U.S.C. § 1347)

It is illegal to knowingly and willfully execute or attempt to execute a scheme to either defraud a health care benefit program or to obtain money or property from a health care benefit program by means of false pretenses or representations. The penalty for such actions in connection with the delivery of or payment for health care items or services may be a fine or up to ten years imprisonment, or both. If the violation results in serious bodily injury, the penalty may be a fine or imprisonment of up to 20 years, or both; if the violation results in death, the person may be fined or imprisoned for any terms of years or for life.

False Statements Relating to Health Care Matters (18 U.S.C. § 1035)

In a matter involving a health care benefit program, it is illegal for any person to knowingly and willfully falsify, conceal or cover up by a trick, scheme or device a material fact; make any materially false, fictitious or fraudulent statement or representation; or make use a materially false document knowing that it contains materially false statements. The penalty for such violation may be a fine or imprisonments for up to five years or both.

Theft or Embezzlement in Connection with Health Care (18 U.S.C. § 669)

It is illegal to knowingly and willfully embezzle, steal, convert or intentionally misapply money or assets of a health care program. The penalty may be a fine or up to ten years imprisonment, or both.

New York State Laws

A. Civil and Administrative Laws

New York State False Claims Act (State Finance Law §§187-194).

The New York State False Claims Act closely tracts the federal False Claims Act. It imposes fines on individuals and entities that file false or fraudulent claims for payment from any state or local government, including health care programs such as Medicaid. The penalty for filing a false claim is $6,000 - $12,000 per claim and the recoverable damages are between two and three times the value of the amount falsely received. In addition, the false claim filer may be responsible for the government's legal fees.

The Government, or an individual citizen acting on behalf of the Government (a "Relator"), can bring actions under the New York State False Claims Act. If the suit eventually concludes with payments back to the government, the party who initiated the case can recover 15% - 30% of the proceeds, depending upon whether the government participated in the suit. The New York State False Claims Act prohibits discrimination against an employee for taking lawful actions in furtherance of an action under the Act. Any employee who is discharged, demoted, harassed, or otherwise discriminated against because of lawful acts by the employee in furtherance of an action under the False Claims Act is entitled to all relief necessary to make the employee whole.

Social Service Law §145-b False Statements

It is a violation to knowingly obtain or attempt to obtain payment for items or services furnished under any Social Services program, including Medicaid, by use of a false statement, deliberate concealment or other fraudulent scheme or device. The State or the local Social Services district may recover up to three times the amount of the incorrectly paid claim. In the case of non-monetary false statements, the local Social Service district or State may recover three times the amount incorrectly paid. In addition, the Department of Health may impose a civil penalty of up to $2,000 per violation. If repeat violations occur within five years, a penalty up to $7,500 may be imposed if they involve more serious violations of the Medicaid rules, billing for services not rendered, or providing excessive services.

Social Service Law §145-c Sanctions

If any person applies for or receives public assistance, including Medicaid, by intentionally making a false or misleading statement, or intending to do so, the person's and the person's family needs are not taken into account for a period of six months to five years, depending upon the number of offenses.

Unacceptable Practices in the Medicaid Program (18 NYCRR §§ 515.2 – 515.3)

Under Medicaid provider regulations, false claims and false statements are unacceptable practices. Sanctions that the Department of Health may impose on a provider for unacceptable practices include censure, repayment, and exclusion from participation in the Medicaid program. Making a false claim means submitting, or inducing or seeking to induce another person to submit, a claim for :care, services or supplies that have not been furnished; care, services or supplies provided at a frequency or in an amount that is not medically necessary ; an amount that exceeds established Medicaid rates; or amounts substantially in excess of the customary charges or costs to the general public. Making a false statement means making, or inducing or seeking to induce another person to make, a false, fictitious or fraudulent statement or misrepresentation of material fact in claiming a Medicaid payment or for use in determining the right to payment.

Concealing or failing to disclose an event that affects the right to payment, with the intention that a payment be made when not authorized or in an amount greater than the amount due, is also an unacceptable practice in the Medicaid program.

New York Labor Law §740

An employer may not take any retaliatory personnel action against an employee if the employee discloses information about the employer's policies, practices or activities to a regulatory, law enforcement or other similar agency or public official.

This law offers protection to an employee who:

- discloses, or threatens to disclose, to a supervisor or to a public body an activity, policy or practice of the employer that is in violation of law, rule or regulation that presents a substantial and specific danger to the public health or safety, or which constitutes health care fraud (knowingly filing, with intent to defraud, a claim for payment that intentionally has false information or omissions);

- provides information to, or testifies before, any public body conducting an investigation, hearing or inquiry into any such violation of a law, rule or regulation by the employer; or
- objects to, or refuses to participate in any such activity, policy or practice in violation of a law, rule or regulation.

The employee's disclosure is protected under this law only if the employee first brought up the matter with a supervisor and gave the employer a reasonable opportunity to correct the alleged violation. The law allows employees who are the subject of a retaliatory action to bring a suit in state court for reinstatement to the same, or an equivalent position, any lost back wages and benefits and attorneys' fees. If the employer is a health care provider and the court finds that the employer's retaliatory action was in bad faith, it may impose a civil penalty of $10,000 on the employer.

New York Labor Law §741

Under this law, a health care employer may not take any retaliatory action against an employee if the employee discloses certain information about the employer's policies, practices or activities to a regulatory, law enforcement or other similar agency or public official. Protected disclosures are those that assert that, in good faith, the employee believes constitute improper quality of patient care.

The employee's disclosure is protected under this law only if the employee first brought up the matter with a supervisor and gave the employer a reasonable opportunity to correct the alleged violation, unless the danger is imminent to the public or patient and the employee believes in good faith that reporting to a supervisor would not result in corrective action. If the employer takes a retaliatory action against the employee, the employee may sue in state court for reinstatement to the same, or an equivalent position, any lost back wages and benefits and attorneys' fees. If the employer is a health care provider and the court finds that the employer's retaliatory action was in bad faith, it may impose a civil penalty of $10,000 on the employer.
